Friendship Snapshot Reflection

1. Assess where you are in each of the 5 areas of expat friendship. Are there areas of hurt that need to be explored? Areas of longing that need encouragement?
2. Identify unmet expectations and explore if they were realistic or not.
3. Brainstorm ways to go deeper into areas that are needing growth.
4. Affirm areas that reflect health or growth from the past.
5. Validate your need/desire for friendship and the time it will take to develop it.

FRIENDSHIP ASSESSMENT

Print off four of the assessment grids found on the next page. Each week, complete the grids by answering the following prompts.

Congratulations on doing the work to go deeper into your friendships and learn more about the heart of the Father in the process!

Week 1:

In each section, list the ways these friendships bring you joy or meet your needs.

Week 2:

In each section list the needs these friendships can't meet. You may choose to think of the people listed or the actual category. Ex: Friends in my Passport country shouldn't meet my need for social interaction.

Week 3:

In each section brainstorm a list of practical ways to invest in each type of friendship. You can even make suggestions for how often you feel those relationships need time invested into them.

Week 4:

In each section write one thing down you will make a plan to do to invest in those friendships in the next 30 days.
